In South Sector, American Troops Launch A New Attack

ADVANCES RESUMED

Aggressive U. S. Patrols Cross Naktong to Probe Enemy Territory

By Howard Handelman
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 24.—(INS)—Counter-punching United Nations troops today cleared a nine-mile highway stretch above Taegu of Red infiltrators amid signs the enemy may be shifting forces elsewhere.

In Korea's south sector, U. S. troops launched a new attack designed to regain a commanding peak overlooking the main road to Masan and Pusan.

On the east coast, South Korean troops captured heights 14 miles northwest of the liberated port of Pohang in a renewed drive toward Yongdok.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that reinforced American troops and South Korean army units continued their "co-ordinated" counter-attacks north of vital Taegu.

In a communique issued at 4:15 Thursday afternoon (2:15 a. m. Thursday EDT), the UN supreme commander said the U. S. Army's 27th (Wolfhound) Regiment and the South Korean First Division repulsed two "minor" Red attacks in this sector. Then, the Allied forces resumed their forward movement.

MacArthur said the UN troops above Taegu, communications hub at the northwest corner of the rectangular front, "achieved their objective" by "securing the main road and principal artillery positions" against Red infiltrators.

The North Korean troops in that sector, the communique said, were "contained" north of Namwon. The latter is nine miles north of Taegu.

Aggressive American patrols crossed the Naktong to the river's west side to probe deep into enemy territory. They tried to find out what the invaders are up to. Except for minor thrusts, the foe was relatively—and strangely—quiet through Wednesday afternoon and night.

MacArthur, in his Thursday afternoon bulletin, said Red pressure was "decreasing" generally along the front stretching northeast from Waegwan to the area south of Kuwui, 22 miles due north of Taegu.

It was in the Namwon vicinity that a large force of North Korean infiltrators swung around the Wolfhound Regiment's flanks during Wednesday's pre-dawn hours. There the Reds threw a roadblock across the highway only nine miles north of Taegu.

Thereupon, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of all UN forces in Korea, pulled another surprise out of his bag. He rushed up a new U. S. Army unit of battalion strength (not identified).

The battalion smashed the roadblock and drove out Red mortars which had intercepted supply traffic moving up to the Wolfhound Regiment's front lines near Tabudong. The latter is twelve miles above Taegu.

The battalion then retired and South Korean marines took over the job of patrolling the important supply artery against any further Red infiltrations.

MacArthur said that "two minor enemy attacks, subsequently contained on Page Three

NEW HOPE COUNCIL OBJECTS TO CANAL

Plan To Contact Various State Agencies To Get Some Action

INSURANCE RATES UP

NEW HOPE, Aug. 24.—A determined effort to clean up the historic Pennsylvania and Delaware canal has been launched by borough council members here.

At their monthly meeting Monday night, the members said that various state agencies would be contacted to remedy the conditions which exist in and along the canal.

Councilman Edward Mathews said that he will go to Harrisburg to make a personal protest to Governor Duff about the condition of the waterway.

Another councilman, Hillborn Dean, asked council to lodge a formal protest with the state Departments of Health, and Forests and Waterways, which supervise the canal.

Hubert Michener, a local insurance agent, told council that fire insurance rates in the borough have been increased because the near-empty canal no longer gave the community a potential source of water for fighting fires.

The stagnant condition of the water was also declared to be a possible health menace to the area.

Dr. W. J. Schoenbach was sworn in as a council member to replace William Lewis, who had resigned. A resolution was passed on the recommendation of Burgess John A. Flood to solicit bids for a traffic signal at Bridge and Main streets.

Suggests Assessment On Bridges Be Raised

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Aug. 24.—Wilbur S. Lippincott, secretary of the Burlington County Board of Taxation, disclosed today a total of 117 appeals from 1950 assessments had been filed by county residents by the August 15 deadline.

Included were two submitted by Edward H. Breisacher of Medford Lakes, who asked that the assessments on the two Delaware River bridges purchased by the county in the controversial deal October 22, 1948, be increased to $11,900,000.

Breisacher, whose two similar appeals were turned down by the county board last November, asks that the assessment on the Burlington-Bristol bridge be increased from $100,000 to $1,360,000, the price reportedly paid for it two years ago.

He asks that the Tacony-Palmyra span be assessed at $10,540,000, the alleged purchase price. The bridge is now assessed at $500,000.

President Aroused Over Hoarders of Food Supplies

By John Harms

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(INS)—President Truman is reported "hoping mad" today about the way hoarders are gobbling up sugar in the face of actual plenty.

The President conferred with his Secretary of Agriculture late yesterday and decided to dump all the available sugar from Cuba and other exporting countries into the U. S. to prove what he has been saying—that it is foolish to hoard, there is enough for everybody.

Secretary Brannan announced that the U. S. would bring in $50,000 tons more sugar in addition to an increase of 350,000 tons ordered last July 13. The total 1950 supply now is a whopping eight million, 700 tons—the greatest amount of sugar ever permitted to be brought into the U. S. under current laws.

It was understood at the Agriculture Department that the new sugar import quota will be the last. Officials say there just is no more sugar available after that is gone to be brought into the country.

But officials predict that the nation will not use all that sugar—there still will be between one and two million tons of sugar lying on hoarders' shelves when the year ends.

Hording has been so widespread during the past several weeks that some sections of the country were completely out of grocery store supplies.

CORPORATION WILL CEASE BUSINESS

Bristol Paint & Chemical Corp. to Dissolve Its Affairs

THE BUILDING IS SOLD

The Bristol Paint and Chemical Corp. announced today that it would go out of business on Sept. 15 and that the corporation would be legally dissolved within three months.

The building and one and a half acres of ground were purchased last week by the International Resistance Co., of Philadelphia, which will use the structure as a manufacturing site. The Philadelphia firm will move in on Sept. 15.

A. E. Greenberg, president of the paint corporation, said that a shortage of vital paint materials, notably titanium, had forced the firm to give up production.

The paint-producing equipment is being sold to other paint makers in this area. Price of the building and equipment is in excess of $100,000, Mr. Greenberg said.

The corporation was formed in 1948 by Mr. Greenberg, formerly vice-president and director of the Enterprise Wallpaper Co. in Pennell, and Walter May, who conducted the Dependable Paint and Varnish Co. on Canal street here since 1939.

The present building on Beaver Dam road and route 13 was completed in 1949 and has 12,400 square feet of floor space.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

Mr. William Green reports that $2 a head from his members will insure the election of a splendid new Congress. . . . Our first two-dollar Congress.

And two dollars seems to be a bargain price to purchase release for the millions of labor slaves now held captive under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Since this dread act became law, no man has been able to strike except in such industries as atomic development, railways, steel, coal, automotive, telephone, transportation, shipping, radio, television, news, et cetera.

But Mr. Green reports the price of freedom is coming in slowly from his members. . . . They don't seem to realize what two dollars will buy in the way of a Congressman.

Anyway it's heartening to know that Old Bill stands ready to give another "no strike" pledge. . . . The last one worked so well that during the war years there were only 14 thousand stoppages.

In 1940, our last peacetime year, there were 2,508 stoppages but by 1944, when we were deep in war, that had changed. . . . That year there were 4,956.

WORMS IN THE FRAMES

A century and a half ago when the 74-gun ship of the line was the most powerful thing afloat, the British Navy, 'tis said, feared only two things: lee shores and worms in the frames.

A 74, for all her towering stretch of canvas, didn't sail too close to the wind. In the long period of years when the channel squadron was the police force of Europe, line captains used to have nightmares over being caught trying to claw off a lee shore while an enemy escaped to windward.

The other worry, for skippers assigned to the Mediterranean or West Indies stations, was that marine teredos—they called them "worms"—would get in the oak frames of the great vessels. Weak-cow frames were almost as disastrous as being holed by a shot at the water line.

The analogy between the boring worms and the deliberate sabotage of the Royal Navy's fighting ships during recent months is a natural. British admiral announcements, from time to time during the past two years, more than hint that skillful enemies are having a field day despite greater than normal security precautions.

Files have been found in the boilers of a carrier. Sand and bolts were found in the gears of a destroyer and a submarine. A considerable amount of ammunition went up under suspicious circumstances at a naval ordnance depot.

Several days ago the master gyro compass of the new aircraft carrier Theseus was sabotaged just before a shakedown cruise. It may be that there have been other serious cases of sabotage that haven't been aired.

While the admiralty doesn't say so the blame seems to rest on certain ratings in the Royal Navy who are loyal to some nation other than their own. This by no means implies that the Royal Navy is a riddled hulk. The fact is, there are worms behind the smooth surface of the planking. Replacing the planking is a damnable operation—the ship must be careened and practically torn apart. But there never was a better way found to get at worms in the frames.

France has 15 different political parties. No doubt all of them follow the American style and promise lower taxes.

Writer in a women's magazine asks: "Why can't our husbands be like Gregory Peck?" Some male, with more than average nerve, should reply: "Why can't our wives be like Lana Turner?"

Those who thought all America needed was an air force now place heavy reliance upon the boots of the infantry.

This is the fifth anniversary of the prediction there would be a reduction in taxes after Japan was defeated.

Two Texans emptied their 45's at each other without hitting even an innocent bystander. The wild west is going panty-waist.

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA---

St. Mary's Hall

BURLINGTON, N. J., Aug. 24—St. Mary's Hall is busy preparing for the opening of school on September 25. Painters, cleaners, carpenters and plasterers are at work. In addition to the maintenance staff. Most important of all improvements is the fire detector system installed under the direction of Joseph Lynch, an engineer. This system has been placed in all buildings on the campus with the exception of Fairholm, the Headmistress' residence. In describing the system Mr. Lynch said:

"The system we have installed in St. Mary's is more sensitive to heat than the sprinkler system, often found in many industrial plants, business houses and some institutions. One of the detector system's most valuable features is the rapidity with which alarms are sounded. In the event of even a small fire it will be only a matter of seconds before an alarm will be heard in every building on the campus and will ring the alarm in the Burlington Fire House, within two minutes. The installation of this system makes St. Mary's one of the safest institutions in the State, if not the safest against peril from fire."

Many persons in the past have expressed an opinion that because the buildings are so old they are no longer safe. Mr. Lynch and the men who have installed the system have exploded that theory. They have been enthusiastic about the construction and fine condition of the entire school, including Deane, the oldest of the several buildings. They say they have never worked on buildings so well constructed and with so many features, that of themselves would prevent the spread of fire, even without the additional protection of the Fire Detector System.

"St. Mary's buildings may be over a hundred years old but they were constructed by skilled workmen and with the finest of materials, many of which it is difficult to secure today," Mr. Lynch explained to Miss Florence Newbold, the Headmistress. "We were astonished to find the walls so thick and in such excellent condition that there never has been any risk from spreading fire. Even the plaster on ceilings and interior walls is so thick they adequately protect any wood used in their construction. Lack of danger from drafts is another fortunate condition in the buildings. The fact that there are many turns in the corridors helps to prevent such drafts. The fire doors, installed a few years ago are also a fine safety measure. St. Mary's not only meets all fire prevention measures necessary under the State Law, but all parents, sending their daughters to St. Mary's can be assured that the school is adequately protected against any danger from fire."

A similar system was installed in Stevens College, Hoboken, in sixty hotels in Lakewood, and many other large buildings throughout the state.

TRENTON PIRATES SCORE WIN HERE IN FINAL FRAME

Scoring twice in the final inning, the Trenton Pirates won over St. Ann's A. A., 6-4, last evening, in a Trenton Industrial League game on Memorial field. The defeat reduced the "Saints" lead on first place to one game.

St. Ann's had tied the score in the sixth when Dave Muth batted for Paul Leighton and punched a hit to right to score Joe Ciaella. Mama, who was also on base at the time, was caught off second.

The tilt was a see-saw affair with the Pirates taking an early lead but St. Ann's coming back to score twice in the first on "Lou" Sassi's hit. The Pirates deadlocked the score in the second. St. Ann's went ahead in the third but the Pirates again knotted the count in the fourth. In the sixth, Fred Scully's boys forged in front and in the last half, St. Ann's deadlocked the score.

"Cappy" Jones started on the hill for the Pirates. He was replaced by Leo Chester in the sixth. The latter was the winning pitcher. "Lou" Mari went the route for the losers. He received ragged support from his mates who committed four errors.

launched, failed to change our positions," north of Taegu. He added that U. S. and South Korean troops were pressing toward the north-west in this sector.

In the U. S. 25th Division's sector along Korea's southern seaboard, the communists related, American troops were attacking in an effort to "gain positions along the crest of Sobuksan Ridge."

The bloody ridge, which has changed hands several times in the past four days, lies only 35 air miles west of Pusan, chief Allied entry port of Korea's southeast tip. Sobuksan Height is nine miles west of Masan, an important harbor and gateway to Pusan.

MacArthur's late Thursday bulletin said "heavy mortar and small arms fire from well dug in enemy positions on this high ground held up our advance in the sector."

The renewed storming of the ridge was launched Thursday after a company of the 25th Division's famed Negro 24th Regiment repulsed a "small enemy attack" at 6.45 a. m. This was announced earlier in a Thursday mid-day communique from Gen. Walker's 8th Army field headquarters.

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . .

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold weather slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's relief — help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today! (Advertisement)

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By Al Spivak

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 24—(INS)—Expansion of Pennsylvania's school lunch program is being sought by the State Production and Marketing Committee as an outlet for the huge milk supply produced on the State's dairy farms.

PMA Secretary John Smith said 40,000 dairymen are being asked to seek action to raise milk consumption among the commonwealth's public school children by 2,000,000 quarts.

"We also are contacting 2300 community committeemen to try to obtain expansion of the national school lunch program even in one-room school houses," asserted Smith.

He pointed out that $809,000 was returned to the Federal Government by the Commonwealth as the unused portion of a $3,711,015 Federal allocation for the program.

"If Pennsylvania doesn't use the money other states will," Smith said. "At the same time, we will be saving the Federal Government the cost of powdering surplus milk."

Smith said that approximately 8,500,000 quarts of milk were consumed by Pennsylvania school children last year. A child is entitled to a half pint of milk with each school lunch.

Last year, 301,390 school children in the Commonwealth benefited from the program, he said, of 1,836,000 enrolled. In New York, 684,499 youngsters received lunches out of 2,378,000 enrolled.

"We are trying to convince dealers that they also should take part in our drive for more milk consumption in schools," Smith said. "After all, it would be a profitable outlet for them as well as for farmers."

The State's policies in distributing milk to school children meanwhile were defended by Miss Frances L. Hoag, chief of the School Lunch and Nutrition Division of the Public Instruction Department.

"Pennsylvania schools distributed more than 23,000,000 half pints of milk to children last year at a cost of $2,600,306," she pointed out. "This is a pretty sizeable milk bill," she added, "and it covers 1805 schools where milk only is given and 916 where milk is provided with hot lunches."

Miss Hoag said that any claim that Pennsylvania is far behind other states in school milk distribution is based on statistical error stemming from differing comparisons.

Actually, she said, 24.5 per cent of the public schools in the State share in the Federal program and an additional 100 schools run their own.

"We probably could get more schools to join the program if the Milk Control Commission would permit lower milk prices for schools," she said.

"Milk dealers could write off cheaper prices for school children as good publicity," she added.

"After all," she explained, "remember that the Government pays only two cents for each bottle of milk and the school child must pay the remainder."

Use Popular Cold Cuts For Summer Buffets

Buffet style—that's the way American hostesses like to entertain, especially in the summertime. In hot weather, help-yourself parties seem more informal and somehow cooler than a seated 'round the table affair. And they're a whole lot easier on the cook!

Best friend of the buffet menu planner is the cold cut! An attractive platter of cold cuts is easy to arrange and makes a handsome centerpiece for a lovely buffet spread.

Served along with the cold cuts assortment is a shimmering jellied salad and a hot noodle and vegetable casserole. Here's a menu built around cold cuts which is easy to prepare and pretty as a picture:

Assorted Cold Cuts
Jellied Vegetable Salad
Casserole of Noodles, Peas and Mushrooms
Thin Sliced Buttered Rye Bread
Bakery Cake
(or Homemade Dessert)
Iced Tea Coffee

In choosing the cold cuts for your pretty array, pick an assortment which vary in shape, texture and flavor, as follows:

1. Contrast in shapes—choose some which are round, some square, some oval.
2. Contrast in flavor—choose mild flavored cuts as well as spicy ones.
3. Contrast in texture—team up firm cuts like salami with soft items such as liver sausage.

For an extra attractive cold cuts platter, arrange the slices around a shallow bowl of fresh pineapple cubes stuck with colored toothpicks. The cool, juicy fruit is a nice accompaniment for the spicy meat. (Be sure to choose a fully ripe pineapple; cut it into chunks, sprinkle with sugar and let stand in the refrigerator for a few hours. You can substitute well chilled canned pineapple chunks, if desired.)

For the jellied vegetable salad, use a base of lemon flavored gelatin and add a little vinegar to

The Child's School Materials

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

MANY public schools provide not only free books for children but also free pencils, paper and the like. Our chief problem as parents is to educate our children in careful and economical use of these free materials. Let us induce the child on first bringing home from school a free book to place on it a strong, neat paper cover. Unfortunately, the average child is rarely taught either at home or school to exercise proper care of such materials. When he makes careless use of these items of public property he is having bad training in citizenship.

More often than not, students in high school must buy their school books. Unless you are sure your child has had enough training in responsibility to secure texts and equipment right away you should make careful check. Not having a text book for the first several school sessions could easily mean a term failure for some students.

Other Tools

For the child in junior or senior high school a fountain pen is useful, though few children under twelve would need one. Parents should consider the purchase of a typewriter for the child even of the upper grades. This tool grows more and more important as the youth enters high school and is almost indispensable for college. A typewriter can be very useful in the home for parents as well as children.

Let us note here that the primary child who is handicapped with reversals of letters as he reads or spells can be helped with the use of a typewriter. If, for instance, he writes letters or words backwards or upside down, typing from copy or while his parents spells each word aloud, will teach him correct letter and word formation.

A good desk dictionary at home is very useful for the child above the fourth grade. An unabridged dictionary, atlas, globe and wall maps can prove good investments for the entire family when children are in high school.

Helping Younger Children

In the modern kindergarten and primary grades there is much emphasis on creative and constructive work with colored paper, large sheets of plain paper, crayons and paints. Such materials provided at home can prove very helpful to the young school child. Simple tools for working with cardboard and wood may be useful all through the elementary grades, especially useful in connection with arithmetic.

Even better than materials are parents who appreciate and enjoy the young child's creations. (My bulletins, "Letting Little Children Learn" and "Parents Can Help Child Succeed at School," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

For supplementary materials in connection with school work, such magazines as The National Geographic, are highly serviceable, as also are several of the children's magazines, since the latter may greatly aid the child in learning to read well.

sharpen the flavor. When the mixture begins to thicken, fold in diced cucumbers, sliced radishes and sliced green onions. You'll find the flavor of this salad delightfully refreshing. (May be made a day in advance.)

For the one hot dish which the buffet menu needs for perfect balance, this tasty one will fill the bill: Combine cooked noodles, cooked peas and lightly fried mushrooms. Moisten well with undiluted mushroom soup, season to taste with salt and pepper and top with buttered crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees F. about 30 minutes. Combine casserole ingredients in the morning and store in the refrigerator until time to bake.

In addition to cold cuts for buffets and in sandwiches, here are some good ways to use economical cold cuts in hearty main dishes:

1. Diced bologna or summer sausage in a macaroni and cheese casserole—or in scalloped potatoes.

2. Add diced cold cuts to a well-seasoned cream sauce, along with lightly fried mushrooms and green pepper. Serve over toast or cooked rice.

3. Add diced cold cuts to potato salad or chilled macaroni salad.

ONLY GEESE FLOCK TO INGHAM SPRING

Once Famous Beauty Spot of Bucks Was Once a Vacationers' Mecca

BIRDS IN VARIETY

NEW HOPE, Aug. 24 — Only the geese today flock into the vicinity of Ingham Spring Lake, one of the famous beauty spots of Bucks county that once was a haven for vacationers and fishermen.

Every spring and fall Canadian geese come to the shores where once the sounds of merry-go-rounds mingled with the music of harmonica band concerts.

A pavilion on the south side of the lake still stands, and is part of the Deer Park Summer camp of the Church of the Latter Day Saints. A zoo was also part of the south shore, but the animals and buildings have been gone for quite a while.

During the heyday of the lake, excursion trains from Philadelphia would bring employees from stores and factories for a day's outing in Bucks county. Fairs and carnivals were common during those days, and concerts by the famous Hoxie's Harmonica Band of Philadelphia were a widely-known attraction.

At one time the spring water was bottled and used on trains throughout the Reading Railroad system. New Hope planned to use the lake as a source of municipal water, but the idea was abandoned because of the high cost of the project.

Edward Bair, long-time resident of New Hope, says that the springs really come from an underground stream, some eight or ten miles away. When the dam was built on the eastern side the lake was formed, and fish stocked in the waters to provide an angler's delight. A whale-shaped boat carried the adults and children around the lake for a nickel a ride.

Across the road from the lake stands the ancestral home of Samuel Ingham, secretary of the treasury under President Andrew Jackson. The house is now owned by Budd Schulberg, widely-known novelist.

Fish are still present in the lake, and bird lovers from the surrounding areas can find a variety of species there. Teal, mallards and other wild ducks come there at times, while during the summer the American egret can be found on the far shore.

The lake, on route 22 west of New Hope, is now privately owned by P. A. Bond.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — (INS)

A study released by the Bureau of Business research at the University of New Mexico shows that retail sales of New Mexico businesses increased from $593 million in 1948 to $617 million in 1949. Bernalillo county led the dollar volume of sales with a total more than $176 million, followed by Eddy county with $44 million; Chavez, $43 million; Lea, $42 million; Santa Fe, $39 million; Curry, $28 million; Dona Ana, $24 million and Grand, $21 million.

HENRICH'S KNEE MAY BOOST HIM TO MANAGER'S SEAT

By John Harrington
I. N. S. Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(INS)—Tommy Henrich's chronic knee injury may boost the veteran outfielder-first baseman right into the manager's seat on the New York Yankees.

There is a king-sized "if" attached to that statement, and it probably is premature. But such a turn of events is far from impossible.

In the first place, most people in the know don't expect Casey Stengel to put up with the worries of managing a pennant contended after this season. Casey is in his sixties and a wealthy man because he has soundly invested his baseball earnings. Mrs. Stengel reportedly would like Casey to quit baseball and get away from the nomadic existence he has led for so long.

Secondly, there is the case of Henrich himself. Tommy is drawing down approximately $45,000 this year, yet his knee injury has allowed him to be of limited service. Obviously, the Yankees won't pay him $45,000 to pinch hit in 1951. Probably, they will find another spot for him.

A lot of observers think Tommy has the makings of an ideal manager. He is quiet, patient, intelligent and extremely popular with the Yankees. He is easygoing, yet would be a strict disciplinarian when the need arose.

Some folks read significance into the fact that Henrich moved his family last year from his native Massillon, Ohio, to New Jersey—a stone's throw from Yankee stadium.

Since Tommy is not one to make such a move with undue haste, his change of residence indicates that he expects to be around New York for a long time to come. In other words, the Yankee organization will keep him in some capacity—the question being whether he will stay as manager or in the business office.

Henrich himself says: "Baseball is my business, and I intend to stay in it. Why shouldn't I? It's treated me very well."

Beyond that, Tommy isn't committing himself. It would not be diplomatic to do so, and Tommy is nothing if not diplomatic. By keeping his ambitions to himself, Henrich is avoiding any such embarrassing situation as occurred when Babe Ruth had a managerial yen a number of years ago.

Babe made no bones about wanting to manage the club and even went to Jake Ruppert, then owner of the Yankees, to ask for a show-down. Ruth got his show-down, but it was the Bambino who was shown. He not only failed to become manager immediately but muffed his chance forever as far as Ruppert was concerned.

One thing that might delay Henrich's casting in the role of Yankee pilot is inexperience. The only time the Yanks have tried to promote a player to the club's helm, the experiment failed to work out. That was when Bill Dickey tried it for awhile in 1947.

Dickey was far too easygoing to be a success at a time when the Yankee personnel demanded a bit of whip cracking. Now he is happier in the role of coach under Stengel.

Wherever they put Henrich, the Yanks can be certain of getting a top-notch performance. Tommy has not been as spectacular a Yankee as Ruth, Lou Gehrig or Joe DiMaggio, but nobody has been steadier or worked any harder.

Tommy got a bonus of $25,000—a lot of money in those days—when the late Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis cut him loose from the Cleveland chain in 1937. Unlike many bonus stars, Henrich has paid off on the original investment many times.

In ten big league seasons, Henrich had a batting average of .282 and averaged about 18 home-runs a year. Probably the most spectacular moment of his entire career came in the first game of last year's world series when his ninth inning homerun defeated Don Newcombe of the Brooklyn Dodgers, 1 to 0.

The figures don't begin to show Henrich's value as a team man. They call him "Old Reliable" because he was—and still is—a man to be counted on in the pinch. He played last season with an amazing collection of aches and pains, bruises and abrasions.

If he does eventually become Yankee manager, he'll give the same sort of all-out performance. That is one thing the Yanks can be sure about.

Many a big deal has been made possible through a small want ad.
